

at 1500 hours at his home, 59 Streatham Close, London S.W. 16. His telephone number is STR-0411. 4. (Colonel (Ret.) Dr.) A.D. XERRIMAN is approximately 65 years of age. He is an etclurgist (graduate of Cambridge) and formerly taught this subject in a technical university. He is also the author of an imposing-looking technical tome entitled: "A Dictionary of Metallurgy." During the war, he was chief Scientific Advisor attached to the Eighth Army. After the war, he went into private business, and now he is a "Technical Advisor" to the Steel Industry. 15. Called upon him at his apartment. He appeared to be completely stable and sincere, and characteristic actions and the story essentially as it happened although he was, at times, vague concerning dates and times. As he will probably be returning to Moscow again in the course of his profession, he was most anxious that his identity be protected and that no action be taken which might be traceable to him. 6. He lived in Moscow for about a year after the war and has since returned on business trips "several times." This last trip was at the invitigation of the Soviet "State Scientific and Technical Commission." He arrived in Moscow circa 8 December and stated that he made the usual rounds of industry and talked to various people but nothing was new. On Thursday, 15 December, (maybe Wednesday) he was the principal speaker at a Scientific and Technical Commission meeting and dinner. His talk concerned the "Thermodynamic Process" in steelmaking, and he was rather surprised at the questions raised after the talk because it was quite apparent that few, if any, of the experts there really understood what he was talking about.				•	.1	•	•
The season of th	·	SPATCH	CLASSIFICATION		 			1.3(a)(4)
Operational/ Benorted Provocation Attempt Operational/ Benorted Provocation Attempt TI Operational/ Benorted Provocation Attempt TI Individual Provocation Attempt TI Individual Provocation Attempt Individual Pro		: 				ARIERO FILE NO.
Conversional Deported Provocation Attempt 1. On Wednesday, 21 December, a Dr. A.D. MERRIMAN contacted the London Embassy by telephone and scorewhat guardedly reported the basic elements of what appeared to be a provocation attempt during a recent business trip he had made to Moscow. The message was reported the basic elements of what appeared to be a provocation attempt during a recent business trip he had made to Moscow. The message was reported to the Kunding Castion by the Embassay, and it was agreed that London Station would check into the report. Was asked if they had any information concerning Subject. After checking, they advised that they could confirm that an individual by this name had made a trip to Moscow in early December but knew nothing about him. Let a late advised that he had checked with the Proving Office who also knew nothing about him. British Admoscow of the fact that MERIMAN had suspented the individual; but in view of the fact that MERIMAN had suspented the individual; but in view of the fact that MERIMAN had suspented the individual; but in view of the fact that MERIMAN had suspented the individual; but in view of the fact that MERIMAN had suspented the individual; but in view of the fact that MERIMAN had suspented the individual; but in view of the fact that MERIMAN had suspented the individual; but in view of the fact that MERIMAN had suspented the individual; but in view of the fact that MERIMAN had suspented the individual; but in view of the fact that MERIMAN had suspented to mee him at 1500 hours at his home, 59 Street and the proving the war, he was chief Sientific Advisor attached to the MERIMAN had suspented the suspented the suspented the suspented the war. We want into private business, and now he is a "Pechnical Advisor" to the MERIMAN had suspented the suspented the suspented the war, we want into private business, and now he is a "Pechnical Advisor" to the MERIMAN had suspented the suspented to meeting the war, be went into private business, and now he is a complete	FROM				Unknown
Operational/ Reported Provocation Attempt No North Reported Provocation Attempt Not North Reported Provocation Attempt							1.3(a)(4)
Reported Provocation Attempt FIT RONGON SERVICES PROCES PROCES	_	Operational/		. [
1. On Wednesday, 21 December, a Dr. A.D. MERRIMAN contected the London Embessy by telephone and somewhat guardedly reported the basic elements of what appeared to be a provoection attempt during a recent business trip he had made to Moscow. The message was reported to the RUBAKS tation by the Embessay, and it was agreed that London Station would check into the report. See asked if they had any information of that an individual by this name had made a trip to Moscow in early December but knew nothing about him. Bear and a south that the had checked with the Foreign Office who also knew nothing about the into the American Embessy that he had already reported the Individual but in view of the fact that MERRIMAN had stated in his telephone call to the American Embessy that he had already reported the Individual but in view of the fact that MERRIMAN had stated in his telephone call to the American Embessy that he had already reported the Indiant to the Embessy would advice them if they planned to contact MERRIMAN directity. The Foreign Office was contacted and so advised. See The State of State	ACTION REQUIRED	Reported Provocati	on Attempt					- !
the London Embassy by telephone and somewhat guardedly reported the basic elements of what appeared to be a provocation attempt during a recent business trip he had made to Moscow. The message was reported to the KUBAK Station by the Embassy, and it was agreed that London Station would check into the report. Was saled if they had any information concerning Subject. After checking, they advised that they could confirm that an individual by this name had made a trip to Moscow in carry December but knew nothing about him. Becamber but knew nothing about him. Local Carry December but him. Local Carry December	PEERBENCE(S)	FYI						1 .
called upon him at his apartment. He appeared to be completely stable and sincere, and has no doubt that he was itelling the story essentially as it happened although he was, at times, vague concerning dates and times. As he will probably be returning to Moscow again in the course of his profession, he was most anxious that his identity be protected and that no action be taken which might be traceable to him. 6. He lived in Moscow for about a year after the war and has since returned on business trips "several times." This last trip was at the invitation of the Soviet "State Scientific and Technical Commission." He arrived in Moscow circa 8 December and stated that he made the usual rounds of industry and talked to various people but nothing was new. On Thursday, 15 December, (maybe Wednesday) he was the principal speaker at a Scientific and Technical Commission meeting and dinner. His talk concerned the "Thermodynamic Process" in steelmaking, and he was rather surprised at the questions raised after the talk because it was quite apparent that few, if any, of the experts there really understood what he was talking about. CAMBINITION AND THE PROPERTY OF THE ADDRESS OF THE PROPERTY OF THE ADDRESS OF T		the London Embassy basic elements of recent business tr to the KUBARK Stat Station would chec 2. Concerning Subject that an individual December but knew checked with the F but in view of the to the American Em British Ambassador interested since tyet. Stathat the Embassy we directly. The Formatting the war, he army. After the war, he Army. After the winterested war, he army. After the war, he warny. After the war to the control of the co	what appeared to be a p ip he had made to Mosco ion by the Embassy, and k into the report. was asked After checking, they by this name had made nothing about him. oreign Office who also fact that MERRIMAN had bassy that he had alrea in Moscow at the time, hey had not redeived an ted, however, that the ould advise them if the eign Office was contact then telephoned MER is home, 59 Streatham C is STR-0411. mel (Ret.) Dr.) A.D. NER is home, 59 Streatham C is contact was chief Scientific Ac, he went into private	what guar provocati we. The lit was if they advised a trip talknew not stated dy report the Foreign y planne ed and s RIMAN an lose, Lo RIMAN is f Cambrille al city al city of the sal city and se busine	had a than to Montage in he creign reported to address approper a portion of the creign reported to a creign repor	y reported to ttempt during age was reported to the tond any informate to they could scow in early dvised that about the instance to the incident office was to from Mosco contact MER vised. Tanged to se S.W. 16. Here in the incident of t	the ag a price a confirm by the had andividual; a call to the most ow as by expected arising to the confirm by a call to the most ow as by expected arising the confirmation of the confir	1.3(a)(4)
since returned on business trips "several times." This last trip was at the invitation of the Soviet "State Scientific and Technical Commission." He arrived in Moscow circa 8 December and stated that he made the usual rounds of industry and talked to various people but nothing was new. On Thursday, 15 December, (maybe Wednesday) he was the principal speaker at a Scientific and Technical Commission meeting and dinner. His talk concerned the "Thermodynamic Process" in steelmaking, and he was rather surprised at the questions raised after the talk because it was quite apparent that few, if any, of the experts there really understood what he was talking about. 1.3(a)(4) TORM 1.3(a)(4) TORM 1.3(a)(4)		be completely stable the story essential concerning dates as again in the course identity be protected.	called upon him at let and sincere, and let and times. As he will poor of his profession, he	his apar has ough he robably was mos	no.d was, be re	toubt that he at times, verturning to licious that he	e:was:telling ague Moscow is	1.3(a)(4)
FORM USE PREVIOUS EDITION. 10-57 53 S1-28, 51-28A AND 51-29 (40) WHICH ARE OBSOLETE. CLASSIFICATION X CONTINUED T CONTINUED		since returned on business trips "several times." This last trip was at the invitation of the Soviet "State Scientific and Technical Commission." He arrived in Moscow circa 8 December and stated that he made the usual rounds of industry and talked to various people but nothing was new. On Thursday, 15 December, (maybe Wednesday) he was the principal speaker at a Scientific and Technical Commission meeting and dinner. His talk concerned the "Thermodynamic Process" in steelmaking, and he was rather surprised at the questions raised after the talk because it was quite apparent that few, if any, of the experts there really understood
FORM USE PREVIOUS EDITION. REPLACES FORMS 10-57 53 51-28, 51-28 AND 51-29 (40) WHICH ARE OBSOLETE.	es de		·		· /	, W H	:	1.3(a)(4)
(40) WHICH ARE OBSOLETE.		REPLACES FORMS	CLASSIFICATION		X,	CONTINUED
re a.		WHICH ARE OBSOLETE.	PA.	310 -0			 ]

7. A rather friendly Russian type named fnu PENKOVSKY took him in hand after the meeting and returned with him to his hotel (the Leningradskaya) along with another Britisher. The three had a drink in the bar, and the British companion left for bed. PENKOVSKY asked MERRIMAN if he had any spare cigarettes, and they proceeded to his hotel room so he could get some packs that he had in his suitcase. Once in the room, the Soviet locked the doors, turned the radio up as loud as it would go and produced from his coat pocket a folded pack of paper wrapped in cellophane. He stated that they were secret documents he wanted to be put in the hands of the American Embassy but that he could not turn them over to MERRIMAN but only to an American officer personally. Le asked MERRIMAN to telephone the American Embassy and ask for an officer to come to his hotel room. MERRIMAN refused to make the call or to even touch the papers; and the Soviet, after pleading with him for a little while, put the papers away and departed. He was not angry and was around again and underfoot for the remainder of his visit and did not mention the matter again. MERRIMAN at first felt that he should advise the American Embassy about the occurrance but then felt that this, his visit to the American Embassy, might be observed by the Soviets; so he told the British Ambassador about the affair on the following day.

- 8. He was subsequently advised by two of his British colleagues that they had noticed that he was under close surveillance. MERRIMAN stated that he himself did not bother about this or even try to spot them as he was indifferent to it—having lived in Moscow in more difficult times.
- 9. Nothing else happened until Sunday at the airport when he was leaving to return to the U.K. PENKOVSKY showed up at the airport about five minutes before departure time. He called MERRIMAN aside and stated that he realized that MERRIMAN was reluctant to become involved, but it was really most important that he establish contact with someone in the American Embassy and asked if MERRIMAN could advise the Americans (presumably upon his return to the U.K.) that PENKOVSKY would be waiting by his home telephone (717184) every Sunday at 10 a.m. for the call and that all the American had to do was to call that number and he would give him further instructions. MERRIMAN was non-committal but asked PENKOVSKY where his "home" was, and PENKOVSKY stated that he lived at 11 Gorki Street. MERRIMAN stated that this was, in fact, the Office of the Scientific and Technical Commission.
- 10. MERRIMAN stated that there was nothing outstanding about PENKOVSKY that could be used to identify him. He was about 55 years of age, of average height, average build for a Russian, and had no outstanding features. He spoke English well but with the usual heavy Russian accent. He had a pleasant and engaging personality which made it a pleasure to be with him. PENKOVSKY attended the dinner and the speech, and he had seen him around once or twice before at official functions during the trip. He stated that he was an engineer, but MERRIMAN felt that he did not have any real knowledge of engineering other than some of the terminology.
- 11. MERRIMAN is, understandably, anxious that no one take advantage of the telephone number and attempt to call it because this might get him involved and prevent further trips on his part. assured him that KUBARK would take no action of any kind, that his confidences would be carefully protected and that his bringing this incident to our attention was deeply appreciated. Mr. MERRIMAN has name and office telephone number and stated that he would immediately advise if he hears anything further from this or if, on subsequent trips, he again becomes involved with anything which might affect U.S. interests.

Distribution:

)-57 53a

USE PREVIOUS EDITION.
REPLACES FORMS
51-28, 51-28A AND 51-29
WHICH ARE OBSOLETE.

CLASSIFICATION

CONTINUED

PAGE NO.

¹ 2

1.3(a)(4)

1.3(a)(4)